Positive Approach to Care

Seeing the World from the Perspective of Those Living with Dementia

People living with dementia aren't trying to give you a hard time - they are having a hard time! Our relationship with someone living with dementia is the most important thing at that moment. By understanding the difference between typical and atypical aging, we can examine how changing our approach can support those living with brain change. There is still so much living to do after a diagnosis of dementia. With the right support and the right care, we can help people living with dementia still lead lives filled with value and purpose.

TRAINING OBJECTIVES

- Distinguish between typical vs. atypical aging
- Learn the four truths of dementia and the difference between dementia and Alzheimers
- Explore how vision changes as we age and how dementia changes vision
- Learn the Positive Physical Approach and how to shift our approach to support changing brains

Date & Time

September 27, 2024
1:00pm – 3:00pm

Location

Land Building
Location: 1535 State Street

Reserve Your Seat!

RSVP to Kasey Bealer
at (504) 710-6345 or
kaseyb@teepasnow.com

Kasey Bealer, MA, is a Mentor and Certified Independent Trainer and Consultant through Positive Approach to Care, the world leader in dementia education, training and support. For over 20 years, Kasey has focused on therapeutic engagement for people living with dementia. Kasey conducts interactive educational trainings, staff orientation, in-service training, and speaking engagements. She also provides therapeutic engagement in residential and community settings, along with family consultations and a Care Partner Education and Support Series.